

Total Goal Statistics by Team Meetings

User Profiles

1. The first user of this report is expected to be soccer fans. Soccer fans could see their beloved team's match statistics, aggregated by meetings with another team (away team).

Most soccer fans are bound to a specific team, and to see if their team reigns superior on other teams, this report offers that insight. By grouping goal statistics by team meetings, without taking into account each respective match results, this report delivers the insight of how many goals are scored by the home team, scored by away team, and overall sum of the goals scored by home team subtracted by sum of the goals scored by away team.

2. The second user of this report is expected to be soccer club owners. Soccer club owners tend to review their owned team's performance by goal statistics compared to other teams, namely the owned team's rivals.

This report delivers the grouped goal statistics for each home team against specific away by number of meetings. Some performance measurement that can be calculated includes categorizing if the team's performance is good or bad or equal against a team. For home team, good performance simply needs to have positive goal difference value, and for away team, good performance needs to have negative goal difference value, as goal difference is calculated by home team's goals subtracted by away team's goals. Note that other measurement mechanism may be applied by soccer team owners, as they deem fit for measurement.

3. The third user of this report is expected to be soccer club managers. Soccer club could use this report to gain insight on how well his/her team fares against specific teams by goal distributions.

This report delivers the grouped goal statistics for each home team against specific away by number of meetings. Some performance measurement that can be calculated includes categorizing if the team's performance is good or bad or equal against a team. For home team, good performance simply needs to have positive goal difference value, and for away team, good performance needs to have negative goal difference value, as goal difference is calculated by home team's goals subtracted by away team's goals. The insight gained from this report is similar to that of soccer club owners' insight. However, other technical measurements may be taken, as how the manager deems fit for measuring his/her team.
